Social and Personal

The third dance of the Richmond German Club will be held in the ballroom of the Richmond Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock. Colonel Jo Lane Stern will lead the dance, and decorations will be unusually attractive.

Tea for Younger Set.
Miss Katherine Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, of 2218 West Grace Street, was hostess at a very pretty little tea on Saturday afternoon for about forty of her friends. The rooms were decorated in red flowers and running cedar, and a big basket of red roses ornamented the tea table.

Prominent Wedding.
The wedding of Miss Caroline Webster Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Abell Hunter, of Belair, Md., to Colonel John Leopold Griffith Lee, son of Colonel and Mrs. Otto Lee, of Hartford County, Md., took place on Saturday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock at Immanuel Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John I. Yellot, rector, assisted by the Rev. Robert A. Castleman, of Elkridge, Md.

The bride wore a beautiful creation of white satin and point lace, and carried a presentation bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. She entered the church with her brother, Edmund Pendleton Hunter, by whom she was given away and they were met at the chancel by the groom and his brother-in-law John Scott Parker, of New York, who was best man. The ushers were Douglas H. Thomas, Jr., John Gittings Brogden, Edgar G. Miller, Jr., Bertram North Stump and William Litchfield Turnbull, all of Baltimore, and David Hunter Riddle, of Chambersburg, Pa., and Miss Martha Abell Hunter was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Miss Elizabeth Harlan, daughter of Judge William H. Harlan, of Maryland, and Miss Sarah Hunter Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Pendleton Harrison, of Hartford County and Maryland.

Mr. Lee is descended from Parker Hall Lee, an officer in the American Revolution. He was assistant United States attorney for Maryland under the first Cleveland administration, and was a colonel on the staff of Governor Edwin Warfield, of Maryland. The bride is a niece of Colonel Robert M. Hunter, who was a member of General Robert E. Lee's staff. She is connected with the Pendleton, Harrison, Hunter and Forrest families of Virginia, and her forebears have been prominent in Berkeley County for generations.

After an extended wedding tour the bride and bridegroom will live at 827 North Charles Street, Baltimore. Among the guests at the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Hamilton Thomas, Miss Alice Lee Thomas, J. Hanson Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Spence, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brooke Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. John Gittings Brogden, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart Jones, Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Flinn, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Jackson, Mrs. Frank Sherwood Hamilton, Mrs. E. J. D. Cross, J. Harry Ferguson, Frank R. Kent and Henry May Gittings, all of Baltimore; Judge and Mrs. C. Watkins, of Middlelothian, the ceremony having taken place on Saturday, January 3, in Alexandria. The marriage is one of the greatest interest throughout the State, owing to the social prominence of both bride and groom. Mr. Watkins is a son of State Senator and Mrs. J. B. Watkins, of Chesterfield, and has a great many relatives in this city.

Mr. Adams Honored.
The Woman's National Democratic League, which has been in session in Washington during the past week, elected Mrs. Mary Ford Adams, national treasurer. Mrs. Adams made her home in this city many years ago, and has a number of friends and relatives here, who will be interested to hear of her recent honors. She is a native of Gloucester County, and is daughter of Judge and Mrs. James E. Ford, and a widow of Captain Thomas D. Adams.

At Baltimore Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Scott were among the guests attending the sixth annual Baltimore Assembly, which was held in the Lyric, in Baltimore, on Friday evening. It was a brilliant event, and the ballroom was transformed into a garden, where the guests were entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Scott are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. Nelson Strother at their country place at Ruxton, Md., before going on to New York.

In Norfolk.
Mrs. Thomas Bolling has closed her Franklin Street house and is now visiting her son, Randolph Bolling, in Norfolk. Mrs. Bolling will be joined later in Norfolk by Mrs. Adolph Osterloh, of this city, and they will go to Palm Beach, Fla., for a stay of several weeks. Mrs. Bolling will not return to Richmond until some time late in the spring, and on her return from Florida she expects to visit places of interest en route to Virginia.

Interesting Announcements.
Mr. and Mrs. John C. Davidson, of Fairfax, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Catherine, to Sidney Taylor Thomas. The wedding will take place in the spring. Mrs. William M. Jones has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Nan Spotswood, to William A. Bond, on Tuesday evening, January 20, at 6 o'clock, in Tabb Street Presbyterian Church, Petersburg. The event will be one of wide social interest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sheppard have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Annie Preston, to William Henry Carr, of Roanoke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Carr, of that city, and they will go to Palm Beach, Fla., for a stay of several weeks. The wedding will be celebrated on Thursday morning, January 15, in Salem Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock.

Guests Entertained.
Mrs. Anne G. Taylor and Miss Mary Taylor, of this city, were two of the guests at a banquet given recently at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Mich. The banquet was in honor of newly arrived visitors at that resort.

Mrs. Hetch, of Bristol, Tenn., entertained at a bridge whist party on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Albert Cohen, of Richmond. Mrs. L. Morse won the first prize and the guest of honor the second.

At the Woman's Club.
Mrs. Christopher Tompkins is chairman of the lecture at the Woman's Club this afternoon at 4:30. The speaker, Mrs. L. R. Dashiell, will be the speaker, and her subject is "The Story of the Nibelungenlied."

Wednesday afternoon Miss Florence People will review V. V. Boyce's "The House of the Future," at the meeting of the literary round table.

Beginning next week the Monday afternoon entertainments will open at 4 instead of 4:30 o'clock, as heretofore. This will be continued until some time later in the season.

Meeting Postponed.
The annual meeting of the board of managers of the Sheltering Arms Free Hospital, which was to have been held to-day at noon, has been indefinitely postponed, owing to the illness of the president, Miss Frances B. Scott.

Important Meeting.
St. John's Circle of King's Daughters will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock with Mrs. Schmidt at her residence, 2402 East Broad Street. All members for urged attendance. The meeting, as planned for the midwinter entertainment given by this circle will be discussed.

Miss Etta M. England, State commander Lady Macabees, will be present at the installation of officers of Richmond Hive No. 3 to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. The installation will be held at Fraternity Hall.

The annual meeting of the Richmond Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held on Wednesday morning in Lee Camp Hall at 11 o'clock. Reports of the officers and other important business is to be transacted.

DEATH CLAIMS HEAD OF PROMINENT CLUB

Eleventh Duke of Rohan Fought With Gallantry in War With Germany.

BY LA MARQUESE DE FONTENAY.

FRANCE'S leading club, the Paris Cercle de l'Union, the headquarters of the aristocracy, and noted for its exclusiveness, has just lost its president, through the death of Alain de Rohan-Chabot, eleventh Duke of Rohan who fought with conspicuous gallantry in the war with Germany, subsequently representing his nation at the peace conference for over forty years in the Chamber of Deputies on the royalist ticket. His son, Josselin, who now succeeds him as twelfth duke, has hitherto been known as Prince de Rohan-Chabot, on the reserve list of the Second Regiment of Chasseurs a Cheval, is married to a distant cousin Marguerite de Rohan-Chabot, daughter of the Comte de Jarnac, and has two little girls. He is a man about thirty-five, and the heir to the dukedom, falling his having male issue, is his younger brother, Jehan, Vicomte de Rohan.

The new duke is a Rohan through the distaff side, and owes his connection to the Rohans to the fact that his direct ancestor in the male line, Count Henri de Chabot, married in June, 1645, the only daughter of Duke Henri de Rohan, perhaps the most illustrious of all the bearers of the name of Rohan, who, with his brother, the Comte de Chabot, achieved fame by refusing to execute the commands of the half-demented Charles IX., on the occasion of the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

Henri de Chabot, after the death of his father-in-law, Duke Henri de Rohan, received from the French crown the right to assume the title of Duc de Rohan by royal patent bearing the date of 1648, and since then his descendants have all styled themselves Rohan-Chabot. To distinguish them from the now Austrian Rohans, descended from Duke Henri de Rohan's brother, and who can trace their ancestry in the male line direct, to the old-time sovereigns of Brittany.

In spite of the misleading statements contained in the Almanach de Gotha, the title of "Cousin of the King," conferred by French royal patent, and of which the Rohans are extremely proud, constituting a recognition of their former sovereignty of Brittany, is confined to the now Austrian line of the Rohans, and does not extend to the Rohan-Chabots.

It is this male line of the Rohans, too, which furnished two such famous commanders to France as Benjamin de Rohan, Prince de Soubise, and Charles de Rohan, Maréchal de Soubise. To the male line of the Rohans, too, belongs the Chevalier de Rohan, who eloped with the Duchess of Mazarin, was the lover of Mme. de Montespan, and who, having become involved in a plot against the life of Louis XIV., was put to death on the scaffold.

Cardinal Prince Louis de Rohan, Landgrave of Alsace, was also a member of the male line of his house. An ambassador to the court of Empress Maria Theresa, he behaved so badly that he was recalled at her request, and years afterwards revenged himself upon her daughter, Queen Marie Antoinette of France, by involving her, though she was perfectly innocent of all wrongdoing, in his disgraceful diamond necklace scandal. At least three Rohans and Rohan-Chabots lost their lives on the scaffold in the great Revolution, at the close of the eighteenth century.

The Rohans take their name from the Castle of Rohan, in the Morbihan, and owe their title of prince, not to any grant or royal favor, but to the fact that they were recognized in ancient times at the court of France as descendants from and representatives of the original sovereigns of Brittany. Some of them, however, in those days, disinclined to make use of the title of prince, considering their name of Rohan sufficiently illustrious, without the prefix of any title, and adopted as their motto, "Tot ne puls, Prince na lignie, Rohan aue." It is regretted that all of the Rohans and Rohan-Chabots in these modern times do not retain the same belief that their name is a more proud possession than that of any title. Thus, Count Guy de Rohan-Chabot, who married the second wife of the widowed Mrs. Albert Gallatin, of New York—she was formerly Miss Suzanne Heyward, of that city—would not rest until he had obtained from the Vatican the purely modern and meaningless title of Duke of Ravese; and, finding that this brought him no additional prestige, but on the contrary rather served to obscure his connection with the houses of Rohan and of Chabot, devoted all his efforts to obtaining from Alfonso XIII., a Spanish title as Duke of Chabot. The King, however, did not see his way to using a historic French name for to him most of her property, comprising a considerable amount of real estate in and around New York. And this passed on his death to his only son, Gerard, who has dropped the ducal title of Ravese, and prefers to be known as a Comte de Rohan-Chabot.

The Austrian branch of the Rohans, and the only one representing the direct male line of the house, has been settled in Austria since the emigration of the French aristocracy. In the train of the royal princes of France, on the outbreak of the great Revolution 129 years ago, its head, Alain by name, is not only Prince of Rohan, with the predicate of Serene Highness, but also Duke of Monteban and Duke of Bouillon, the latter dignity inherited from Godfrey de Bouillon, the first Crusader King of Jerusalem, the Prince de Rochefort, Prince of Monteban, and Prince de Guemenee, all of them ancient French titles, duly inherited, not only recognized by the French crown, after the Restoration of the Bourbon monarchy in 1815, but also recognized and confirmed, after due examination, as Austrian honors by the Austrian crown.

All Prince Alain Rohan's possessions, which are very extensive, are in Austria, where he is a member of the House of Lords and a knight of the Order of the Golden Fleece. He has magnificent palaces at Vienna and Prague, and a superb country seat at Sichelow, in Bohemia. His sister is the Duchess of Madrid, widow of Don Carlos, legitimist pretender to the throne of Spain.

One of his brothers, Prince Benjamin Rohan, popularly known as "Babs" Rohan, owing to his huge bulk, came to America, in consequence of financial troubles, drifted lower and lower, until, in a state of utter destitution, he finally found employment in New York as waiter in a Second Avenue restaurant. There he was fortunate enough to discover among his fellow waiters a peasant lad, born on the great Bohemian estates of the Rohan family, and who considered it to be a privilege to be permitted to act as henchman to a scion of his noble household. "Babs" Rohan lived for a time on this poor fortune, but from his employment was dismissed for incompetence, and it was only when he was finally recognized in New York by some former friends, who notified his family of his condition, that money was sent to him, and an allowance secured from his relatives, as long as he undertook to make no attempt to return to Austria. He subsequently married in France the widow of a millionaire fertilizer manufacturer, and died a few years ago in the South of France, and in the odor of sanctity.

GIFT TO UNIVERSITY.

Crane will Present Replica of Jefferson Statue.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., January 11.—Charles R. Crane, of Chicago, has announced his intention of giving to the University of Virginia a replica of the statue of Thomas Jefferson which was erected in St. Louis at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. The statue, the sculptor, achieved a triumph in conception and execution of the statue at St. Louis. It will be of bronze and will be placed on West Lawn at the end of the colonnade facing the bronze statue of Washington, which was presented to the University last year by John T. Lupton, of Tennessee.

Chinese Fleet to Visit Key West.
Key West, Fla., January 11.—Private advices received here to-day report that the Chinese fleet, consisting of three cruisers and several smaller boats, now enroute to Havana, will visit Key West at an early date, later going to other American ports.

On Special Committee of Association of Universities.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., January 11.—Dean James Morris Page, of the University, has been appointed to membership on a special committee of the Association of American Universities to investigate and report to the association on the question of the classification of American colleges, with reference to the educational standards and practice. The University of Chicago is the only Southern institution of learning that has been accorded membership in this association, and Dean Page is the only Southern scholar who has been chosen by this body to aid in its important work in the interests of American scholarship and educational ideals.

The other members of this special committee are Dr. Kendrick C. Babcock, of the University of Illinois; Provost William H. Carpenter, of Salisbury, of the University of Chicago; and Dean A. F. West, of Princeton University.

News of Fredericksburg.

Fredericksburg, Va., January 11.—John L. Carter, August Dannehl and W. J. Jacobs, were fined $10 each yesterday by Justice R. L. Dodd, T. J. Spicer and John Payne, all of Chicago, for exceeding the speed limit in an automobile on the improved roads in Stafford County on the night of December 27, when the machine in which they were seated collided with a buggy in which were Andrew Briggs and J. Calvin Stuart, and resulted in both of the latter being injured and the buggy damaged. An appeal was taken by each of the defendants, and the case will come up in the Circuit Court of Stafford County.

J. C. Stuart has instituted suit against John L. Carter, August Dannehl and W. J. Jacobs, who were in the machine, and also against George E. Jacobs, who owns the automobile, for $2,500 for alleged personal injuries received in the collision, and Andrew Briggs has instituted suit for $500 against the same persons for injuries received.

The Fredericksburg Motor Club has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: W. S. Embrey, president; Captain R. C. Vance, vice-president; A. A. Kishpaugh, secretary; Simon Hirsch, treasurer. The delegates from the club to the meeting of the Virginia Automobile Association were instructed to vote for re-election of Preston Holtzner president of the State association.

A revival commenced in the Methodist Church to-day and will continue for probably two weeks. Rev. W. O. Butler, of Winchester, is assisting pastor. Rev. John R. Jacobs, Rev. D. H. Kern, presiding elder of Alexandria district, was present to-day and preached at the morning service.

MANY SERMONS ON RACE IMPROVEMENT

Preached in Battle Creek Churches by Delegates to National Conference.

Battle Creek, Mich., January 11.—Race improvement sermons were delivered in virtually all Battle Creek churches to-day by delegates attending the First National Conference on Race Betterment, among the speakers were Dr. Gifford H. Sumner, secretary of the Iowa State Board of Health; Graham Taylor, of Chicago, and Dr. J. N. Hurty, of Indianapolis. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, of Chicago, who was expected to speak, was unable to be here.

"Disease and Its Prevention" and "The Public Repression of the Social Evil" were two of the important topics discussed. "The cure-all doctor, the exclusively pill-and-potion doctor, the advertising quack, the so-called drugless healer of human ills, the medical liberty league man, and the teacher who claims that human ills are imaginary, are not the modern, scientific doctors of the medical profession," declared Dr. Sumner. "The sphere of the medical man has been enlarged, and he has decided that tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox and many diseases are economic maladies, and trade and occupational diseases will not disappear until social conditions have been made better."

"The cure of a State practices economy in public health measures, efficiency is not attained, but if we place efficiency first, economy is the essential result. The prime motive of all health boards should be to prevent the spread of disease, and the means by which traffic in vice may be checked."

PRIESTS TRANSFERRED.
O'Donnell Goes to Warrenton and Gilman to Roonoke.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., January 11.—It was announced here to-day that the Rev. Father B. O'Donnell, assistant pastor of St. Andrew's Catholic Church, here, had been ordered by Bishop O'Connell to Warrenton, to take charge of a mission parish there, to be succeeded here by the Rev. Father James Gilman, now pastor of the Catholic Church at Harper's Ferry.

Father O'Donnell came here from Philadelphia last October. He is regarded as one of the most brilliant pulpits in this diocese. His assistant, Father Gilman, was assistant pastor here from 1904 to 1908, when he was transferred to St. Peter's Church in Richmond, remaining there until a year or so ago, when he was transferred to Harper's Ferry.

DON'T WANT NAZIMOVA.

Lynchburg Organists Seek to Prevent Her Appearance.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., January 11.—A strong effort is being made here to suppress Madame Nazimova, who is billed to appear here Thursday night in "Stella Donna" at the Academy of Music, several organizations having adopted resolutions calling upon the authorities to prevent the production of that piece in Lynchburg. Mayor Smith has been confined to his home by illness for a week, and it is not known if any action will be taken by the authorities with respect to the protest.

What Is It?

The usual cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, a drug which often produces aches, ails and discomfort; but the habit can be quickly overcome by using well-made Postum.

One of the most pleasing features of this change from coffee to Postum is the total absence of a sense of something missed.

But more important is that "good all over" feeling of returning health; and it's the finest trade possible to quit coffee and get well.

Postum, made of prime wheat and a small per cent of New Orleans molasses, is a pure food-drink. It is wholesome and nourishing; and has a delicious, snappy flavour resembling that of Old Gov't Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine.

Any one can make a stand for the old-fashioned fun that comes with health and the power to "do things." Suppose you try it!

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled 15 to 20 minutes.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A scant teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water dissolves instantly.

The convenience of Instant Postum is apparent. But, when prepared according to directions, both kinds are exactly the same. The cost per cup is about equal.

—Grocers everywhere sell both kinds.
